INTRODUCTION

Institut Kimia Malaysia is proud to present the 9th Biennial Regional Symposium on Total Laboratory Management (QSEL) 2019, jointly organized with Department of Chemistry Malaysia and Department of Standards Malaysia and in collaboration with Ministry of Energy, Science, Technology, Environment and Climate Change, Ministry of Health, Department of Occupational Safety and Health, and Department of Environment. It will be held in conjunction with LabAsia 2019 and the 7th Asian Conference on Coordination Chemistry or ACCC7 2019. This symposium is currently ninth in its series and covers topics in major aspects of laboratory management. The conference will convene in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia on 15 to 16 October 2019 at Putra World Trade Centre.

Highlighting the theme Laboratory Management Evolution, QSEL 2019 will mark the first time the symposium initiates a panel forum discussion. The two days symposium is designed to provide and share the latest developments and information on laboratory quality management, safety, environmental management, laboratory informatics and technology. It provides unique opportunity to understand the laboratory workforce, highlighting the roles of analysts and technicians in the improvement of chemical lab of any scope and specialty.

OBJECTIVE

QSEL 2019 aims to provide insights about laboratory management, in terms of quality, safety, practices and cutting edge technologies to assist attendees in improving their efficiency and management skills, and enhancing laboratory operations. Invited academicians and practitioners will share their knowledge about the latest certification, regulations and legislations which are essential for smooth running of laboratories, making a positive impact for quality laboratory performance.

TECHNICAL PROGRAMME (Tentative)

- Keynote Lecture from Ministry of Energy, Science, Technology, Environment and Climate Change
- Keynote Lecture from Department of Chemistry Malaysia
- Transitioning to ISO/IEC 17025:2017
- Experiences and Challenges in implementing ISO/IEC 17025:2017
- MS ISO/IEC 17025:2017 Requirements- Risk based Thinking & Decision Rule
- Food Analyst Registration – Issues & Challenges
- Analytical Instrument Quantitation from a Chemical Metrology Perspective
- Updates on OSH Legislation in Malaysia
- Roles of Competent Person
- Schedule Waste Management
- Health and Safety in Handling CBRNe Material
- Issues and Challenges: Chemical Laboratory Safety and Security
- Microscale Chemistry-The Way Forward for a School Laboratory Experiments
- The Future Challenges in Analyst Preparedness
- The Quest to Identify Food Adulterants and Contaminants.
- Musty Odour in Drinking Water
- Natural Disaster Management in Malaysia
- Industrial Revolution 4.0
- Big Data Approach to Analytical Chemistry
- Practical Aspects of LIMS Selection and Implementation.

EXHIBITION

In conjunction with QSEL 2019, an exhibition entitled LabAsia 2019 will be held at the same venue. LabAsia 2019 will showcase latest analytical techniques and laboratory services including instrumentation, laboratory safety, management and information systems, environment and waste management, chemicals and scientific publications.

LabAsia 2019 is managed by ECMI ITE Asia Sdn Bhd. Please refer to the website: www.lab-asia.com for more information.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

Scientists, laboratory managers, supervisors, testing personnel, laboratory technicians / technologists, marketing executives, safety officers and consultants from industries, research organizations, government laboratories, private laboratories as well as academicians and educators from institutions of higher learning.
